Statement of Interest/Why You Should Be Appointed

I have recently become exposed to a growing negative bent towards women through my brother trying to tell me that there is no gender pay gap. I feel like there is upsetting information being pushed via online sources that is skewing the perceptions of men about women and our role in society. I think the recent Supreme Court rulings are evidence that women need more agency and support to continue a pathway to equality.

Interests & Experiences

Statement of Interest/Why You Should Be Appointed

My professional work includes advocating for policy change at the national, state, and local levels to ensure equitable health policies that protect the full health and well-being of all women, and especially communities that are most marginalized and impacted by health disparities including: Black Women, Women of Color, Indigenous and Immigrant women and LGBTQ+ and Gender Expansive people. My background in organizing and legislative advocacy has included centering intersectional approaches to policy change and building strong relationships and coalitions with a wide range of issue stakeholders working at the intersections of gender and racial justice, as well as economic security for women. Before relocating to Alexandria in 2019, I served as a Mayoral appointee on the Philadelphia Women's Commission and was a leader of the Commission's work to integrate a Reproductive Justice framework into its local agenda-setting work and local and state-level advocacy portfolio. I helped spearhead local resolution strategies to call on the state legislature to provide equitable coverage for a full range of reproductive health services. I also worked with stakeholders in the city to improve conditions for incarcerated women in state prisons and to introduce a local and state-level legislative efforts to address the Maternal Mortality crisis in Philadelphia and across the state. This local-level public service experience complimented my state level legislative advocacy and coalition-building work to advance a Reproductive Justice Policy Agenda. Now that I am living in Alexandria, and working on policy issues uniquely impacting marginalized women in a wider range of states on behalf of a national organization, I am eager to build deeper relationships and continue my service and advocacy work at the local level to advance women's health and economic security. I truly believe local and state level representation, service and advocacy is where the real change happens, and serving on the Commission for Women would provide a platform to continue this crucial advocacy work, while expanding my network and community around issues I remain passionate about and that are critical to the health and well-being of women in Alexandria. It would be an honor to bring my leadership and issue expertise to this space and to help advocate for issues that are important to local women and families.

Interests & Experiences

Statement of Interest/Why You Should Be Appointed

As we move towards the future, women will increasingly lead our nation. Women, for example, complete high school and undergraduate degrees at a much higher rate than men. According to the National Center for Education Statistics: In 1972, men completed undergraduate degrees at a 12% higher rate than women; By 1982, the undergraduate completion gap between men and women was even; and By 2019, women led men by 14% in completing undergraduate degrees. While I am aware that people can make a decent living without graduating college, studies show those who complete undergraduate degrees have better long-term earning potential. I did not address the gap in graduate higher education degree completion between men and women as it is much starker. Women will also be a larger part of the workforce in our nation's future. In April 2021, the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that 69% and 57% of men and women, respectively, participate in our nation's workforce. The educational gap I mentioned above will most certainly also change the workforce participation ratio between men and women. Men need to be a strong advocate for women. I have helped several women get elected to public office. Women are Alexandria and our Nation's future.
