

Parking Related Suspension of Enforcement

Effective March 29, 2020 (March 17, 2020 for 72 Hour Rule and Street Sweeping signs)

To assist vehicle owners who are now working from home, caring for others, or trying to ensure the flow of goods and services, the City has suspended enforcement of the following parking restrictions until further notice:

- Time restrictions for the general public in residential parking permit zones. (Signs in these zones include the language “residential permit exempt.”) (City Code Section 10-4-2)
- Weekend time restrictions and meter fees on blocks with pay stations. (Time restrictions and meter fees on blocks with pay stations will continue to be enforced on weekdays.) (City Code Section 5-8-93)
- Time restrictions for street sweeping. (Signs pertaining to these restrictions prohibit parking during a one-hour window on a particular day of the week.) (City Code Section 10-4-2)
- The prohibition against parking on the street for more than 72 hours. (City Code Section 10-4-8)
- The requirement to display a valid state inspection sticker. (City Code Section 10-4-38)

These changes do not permit parking in any location otherwise prohibited, including “no parking” zones. All other time restrictions not listed above, such as 15-minute spaces or time limits in commercial corridors, will continue to be enforced. Parking enforcement officers will have the discretion to enforce suspended restrictions in exceptional circumstances where a significant traffic safety or community concern exists, or as necessary to ensure the safe and orderly movement of vehicles.
