

school configuration which will be addressed by ACPS during this calendar year.

SUMMARY: Phase II of the LREFP began in Spring 2016 to explore citywide high school and pre-K capacity needs, two of the recommendations resulting from Phase I, and was led by ACPS with support from City departments. As a result of this work, high school and pre-K center educational specifications were developed and addendums were drafted by the LREFP Work Group to update the 2015 document.

During its meeting on May 24, 2018, the School Board adopted the Phase II addendums to the LREFP that include the Work Group's recommendations and clarifications provided by the School Board, including aligning the timing of some recommendations with the recommendations of the Ad Hoc Joint City-Schools Facility Investment Task Force. Common themes of the Phase II recommendations include increased analysis of existing space, definition of academic programs and future increased space for pre-K and high school capacity.

The final addendums are included in the attachments.
